About Washington Performing Arts

One of the most established and honored performing arts institutions in America, Washington Performing Arts has engaged for more than half a century with artists, audiences, students, and civic life. The city is truly our stage: for decades, in venues ranging from concert halls and clubs to public parks, we have presented a tremendous range of artists and art forms, from the most distinguished symphony orchestras to both renowned and emerging artists in classical music, gospel music, jazz, culturally-specific genres, dance, and more. We also have an ever-expanding artistic and educational presence on the internet, envisioning ongoing opportunities for online connection and community.

Washington Performing Arts deeply values its partnerships with local organizations and other arts institutions. Through events online and in myriad performance venues and neighborhoods, we engage international visiting artists in community programs and introduce local artists to wider audiences. We place a premium on establishing artists as a continuing presence in the lives of both young people and adults through residencies and education programs.

Our achievements have been recognized with a National Medal of Arts and with three Mayor’s Arts Awards from the DC Government. We have now embarked upon our second half-century, ever inspired by the motto of our founder, Patrick Hayes: “Everybody in, nobody out.”

Organizational Diversity & Inclusion

Washington Performing Arts is committed to diversity, equity, inclusion, and access in all aspects of our work. In keeping with our mission and guiding principles, we seek, represent, and welcome a multiplicity of voices in everything we do from programmatic content to the composition of our board and staff. Accordingly, we seek to build a team that reflects — and meets the needs of — the community we are part of and serve. While we have made important progress, we continue to pursue that goal through intentional, focused learning and action. Hiring a diverse workforce is but one component — we strive to make Washington Performing Arts ever more inclusive, and true to our founder’s guiding ethos of “everybody in, nobody out.” To gain the maximum benefit from our increasingly diverse team, we wish to make every employee feel welcome and motivated to do their best work. We know that we work better together in service of Washington Performing Arts’ mission, because of our differences, not despite them.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Washington Performing Arts subscribes to a policy of Equal Employment Opportunity and will not discriminate against any employee or applicant because of race, age, sex, color, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, protected veteran status, religion, ancestry or national origin, marital status, genetic information, political affiliation, and gender identity or expression. In addition, the District of Columbia adds protection for marital status, personal appearance, sexual orientation, family responsibilities, matriculation, or political affiliation. Washington Performing Arts' employment decisions are made based on the needs of the organization and qualifications of the applicants and employees.

POSITION INFORMATION
The Education Partnerships Manager is a unique role combining knowledge of and skills in arts education, cultural diplomacy, and mentorship, to deliver a broad range of programming that serves unique needs in our community and is aligned with the mission, vision, and values of Washington Performing Arts.

An integral part of the five-person Education & Community Engagement Team, whose programs center diversity, equity, and inclusion, the Education Partnerships Manager will oversee all aspects of programs created and implemented in partnership with the DC Public School (DCPS) system, including the award-winning Embassy Adoption Program (EAP); DC Keys; and the DCPS Honor Ensemble program. In addition, the Education Partnerships Manager will oversee the programmatic aspects of Washington Performing Arts’ Internship Program, matching young professionals with engaging positions in every department at Washington Performing Arts. The Education Partnerships Manager will serve as liaison and primary point-of-contact for district-wide curriculum-based partnership programs for the Education & Community Engagement Department. This position will also assist with other education & community engagement programs as needed and will be a key participant in the department’s external communication efforts as well as case-making, data collection, and reporting.

A core function of this position is to develop and maintain positive, effective, and collaborative relationships with a diverse array of program constituents, including diplomats and global partners from the Washington, D.C. diplomatic community; DCPS administration, staff, and faculty; Teaching Artists, community partners, volunteers, and Washington Performing Arts colleagues and interns. We are looking for a colleague who can create welcoming environments for participation; will bring tact and diplomacy to their interactions, and is imaginative in the ways that our programs can be customized and adapted in unique situations.

This important staff position requires deep knowledge of cultural diplomacy, arts-related and/or global education-related curriculum design, instruction, and evaluation in order to develop engaging curricula, exciting performance opportunities, instructional best practices, effective professional development, and program assessments for Washington Performing Arts education programs, with primary focus on the Embassy Adoption Program, DC Keys, and DCPS Honor Ensembles. In addition, this position requires a creative outlook to assist interns in their professional skill-building and relationship development.
The Manager of Education Partnerships will report to the Director of Education & Community Engagement, and will work closely with other internal departments and staff, including Programming, Special Productions, Mars Arts DC, Advancement (fundraising), and Marketing, Communications & Creative Media.
